WILLIAM BORNEMANN SHOOTS HIMSELF THIS AFTERNOON AND DIES IN HIS BEDROOM

Well Known Tobacco Broker and Local Weather Observer Commits Suicide
as Result of Ill Health.

William Bornemann, the well known tobacco broker and local weather observer, shot and killed himself shortly after noon today at his home, 719 Madison street. His health is considered the cause of his act.

He left the dining room about 1:45 o'clock and went up to his own room. His wife and step-daughter, Miss Jane Stephenson, heard a report, which Mrs. Bornemann considered a door slamming, but which the younger lady declared was a pistol shot. They went up stairs and found Mr. Bornemann on the floor, bleeding from a wound near his heart, and unconscious. He died shortly after Dr. Taylor, who was instantly summoned, arrived.

For several months Mr. Bornemann had been in ill health, and the last three days his condition had been worse, though no such thing as an intention to take his own life was suspected from his conduct.

He never spoke after the deed was done, and left no message. Mr. Bornemann was a native of Germany, and a member of an influential family in Europe. He was 65 years old and had resided in this city 25 years. He was a tobacco broker during the whole time, and before the days of the association did an enormous business. His business has dwindled to practically nothing since.

Mr. Bornemann was local weather observer for nearly 30 years. He had many business friends in the city. His office has been located over the First National bank, Third street and Broadway, ever since he came to Paducah.

Delayed Report From Teheran Says Six Thousand People Were Killed; Earthquake Destroyed Villages

More Than Hundred Men Unaccounted For as Result of English Mine Disaster Yesterday.

Teheran, Feb. 17.—Delayed messages received today from provincial authorities of Laristan province, say sixty villages were destroyed and 6,000 people killed by an earthquake January 23.

The delay in getting news was due to the inaccessibility of the region and the terror which seized the people. It is believed to be the quake concerning which there was much speculation after seismographs in all parts of Europe had recorded the shock.

English Mine Disaster.

New Castle, Eng., Feb. 17.—Thirty-two miners were frightfully burned but rescued this morning from the Stanley coal mine, wrecked yesterday by the explosion. Eight bodies were removed. A man, taken out alive, died later. One hundred and eight miners are unaccounted for.

Guest of Kaiser.

Berlin, Feb. 17.—According to an announcement today President Roosevelt is expected to remain in Berlin several weeks as the Kaiser's guest after his African hunt. This prolongation of his stay pleases the public.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The grand jury of the District of Columbia this afternoon reported indictments, charging libel against the owners and editors of the New York World and Indianapolis News on account of the recent publication of the alleged Panama scandal.

WEATHER.
PLEASANT.

Fair tonight, slightly warmer in extreme west portion; Thursday fair and warmer. Highest temperature yesterday, 42; lowest today, 29.

REQUESTS FOR TICKETS TO WITNESS THE HANGING.

Requests for tickets to the double hanging are still being received by Sheriff John W. Ogilvie, and already enough requests for admittance have been received to insure that the S. R. O. sign will be put out many hours before the trap will spring. Many people are anxious that the appeal set aside the judgment of the circuit court, and that Smith and Freeman may not hang for many months, and possibly never face the gallows. The court of appeals will decide the appeal in April, and until then the two prisoners will remain happy in the county jail.

Made Unconscious by Fall.
Lone Oak, Feb. 17. (Special).—While walking down steep stairs, Mrs. W. T. Pepper slipped and fell to the bottom. She was unconscious for more than an hour, but no bones were found broken. She sustained bruises over the body, but no serious results are expected.

Another Knox Tangle

Washington, Feb. 17.—Another mixup in the hill, enabling Knox to become secretary of state, was discovered this afternoon in a conflict between the bill and the joint resolution. Floor Leader Payne suggested postponement until tomorrow to unravel the tangle.

DELIGHTFUL EVENING AT PARISH HOUSE ENJOYED.

EIGHTY CHILDREN WILL ENTER HIGH SCHOOL NEXT FALL

Already Over Crowded Condition Will be Worse With

Seats in Unfit Condition For Use in Auditorium.

NO PLACE FOR THE BOOKS

With 80 more new pupils entering the High school next September and five in the graduating class for June, it is imperative that the school board will have to enlarge the seating capacity of the study hall. Already the seating capacity is not adequate for the number of students, and it keeps the teachers of the High school faculty busy switching the pupils around in order that all may have seats. This is the result of the dissatisfaction caused by the use of opera chairs, which are so frail that the most delicate shock will break a casting.

The teachers of the High school were not backward in giving their views on the dissatisfaction over the seating facilities in the study hall. On account of the delicate castings many arms on the chairs, used for writing, have been broken off, while the students are compelled to place their tablets in their laps and write. This is uncomfortable, and the writing cannot be rapid or plain.

Badly Broken.
Some of the chairs are broken too badly for use, and these are entirely out of commission while others are rickety but are still used. One teacher in speaking of the condition this morning, said:

"I think it is a shame that the pupils have to write with the desks in the condition. All parts of the chairs are broken easily, and the children tear their clothes on the rough edges. So many seats have been broken that pupils are seated on the seats in front of the aisles, and these seats are not provided with any place to keep books. As a result the floor is used as a book case, and books are kicked around. We are about 30 seats short, and these pupils have to find seats the best they can, using a chair which is unoccupied while a student is sitting or attending recitation."

The opera chairs installed in the High school have never given satisfaction, although the chairs cost over $3 each. This is the second year of their use, and it has been demonstrated they are too frail.

Mrs. Lula Landis

Mrs. Lula Landis, 24 years old, the wife of Mr. Isaac Landis, a timber dealer, died suddenly last night about 9 o'clock of acute indigestion. Mrs. Landis had not been feeling well since Monday morning and late yesterday she became ill with acute indigestion. Mrs. Landis resides at the home of her mother, Mrs. Josephine Morgan, of 1627 Broadway. She was a member of the Broadway Methodist church and has a host of friends to mourn her death. Mrs. Landis was born and reared at Jeffersonville, Ind., and had lived in this city two years. She is survived by her husband, mother, one sister, Miss Josie Morgan, and two brothers, Jacob and James Morgan, all residing in this city. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Broadway Methodist church. The Rev. G. T. Sullivan, pastor of the church, will officiate. The burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

HOSS SWAPPIN' CASE.

"Hoss swappin'" proved trouble for Jim Pitts and S. J. Potter, two farmers, for in addition to having the case taken into court, Potter has sworn out a warrant against Pitts, charging him with horse stealing. Pitts lives in southeastern Missouri, while Potter is a resident of this county near Rosington. Pitts has not been arrested, but the warrant has been placed in charge of the sheriff. It is said that several months ago Pitts exchanged a mule to Potter for a horse. The trade was unsatisfactory, and the case was brought up in the courts, in which Potter secured a judgment. In the warrant it is alleged by Potter, that Pitts returned yesterday and took the mule from his possession. Consequently, the warrant was sworn out by Potter in the court of Magistrate C. W. Emery.

"Only Dunk Cooper Killing Carmack", Said Sharp to Witness, When Shots Were Heard on Streets of Nashville

Then Sharp Turned and Walked Toward Scene of Shooting
Is Testimony of the State
Librarian.

Nashville, Feb. 17.—A big crowd attended the Cooper trial this morning. The court room was crowded early. It is expected that sixty witnesses will appear for the state. The defense hasn't given out the number that will be called.

Theresa McCann swore that she was in Fort's office when Robin Cooper came in to have his wound in his shoulder dressed. His father was with him, she said. While the doctor was busy on Robin, she says she heard Col. Cooper say, "Don't let anyone come in here, I don't want to have to shoot another man."

Mary Skeffington, state librarian, swore she walked down the capitol steps a few minutes before the killing. As she approached the scene she met Sharp, and talked with him. Heard shots and asked Sharp "What's that?" He replied: "Not much; merely Dunce Cooper killing Ed Carmack."

Then, she said, Sharp turned and walked toward the scene of the killing. W. J. Smith swore that he and John Sharp discussed Carmack during the campaign. "Sharp told me Carmack has been a disturbing element in the Democratic party ever since he has been in politics," Smith swore. He said Sharp used bitter words in referring to Carmack.

W. G. Jones, who embalmed the body of Carmack; Dr. Drake, who examined his wounds, and Dr. Fort, who examined the body at the night autopsy, were among the witnesses waiting to be called this morning. Mrs. Lucius Burch, daughter of Col. Cooper, was allowed to stay in the court room despite the rule excluding witnesses.

Mrs. Charles H. Eastman.
Mrs. Charles H. Eastman said she met Senator Carmack on the west side of Seventh avenue. She was going south. She met Senator Carmack near the wall dividing the Polk property from the adjoining lot. Witness was with Mr. J. M. Eastman, a cousin of her husband, of New York. They were walking slowly.

Senator Carmack approached pleasantly, a pleasant look of recognition on his face, just as a gentleman would greet a lady. Senator Carmack was slightly west and south of witness. They were near the center of the pavement. Eastman to the left of witness—east. Senator Carmack had greeted witness and she started to speak. He was looking down in a listening attitude. Senator Carmack had his hat well lifted in his right hand; his cigar was in his left hand. Some one, a voice, spoke in the rear of them. The voice said:

"Well, here you are, are you? We've got the drop on you now," or words to that effect. The voice was to the north of witness. The voice seemed quite near. Witness was still looking at Mr. Carmack when the voice was heard. A look of surprise came immediately over Senator Carmack's face as he looked over her shoulder. Mr. Carmack stepped back, seemed to flinch and ran his right hand in his pocket, the left hand following. The weapon came out slowly, seemed to catch.

Witness was north and east of the Shikandi gate. She moved there as rapidly as possible. At the time witness jumped Mr. Carmack had the weapon in his hand; had hold of the barrel.

General McCann here asked for one of the pistols. The weapon was handed Mrs. Eastman by the attorney general, and she was asked to stand and show the jury how Senator Carmack drew the weapon. The weapon came out with his right hand around the barrel. Senator Carmack jumped away from her, as she jumped, and in an opposite direction. The firing began as she jumped. Witness thought at the time Colonel Cooper was Dr. William White, and she cried: "Dr. White, don't don't shoot, for God's sake, don't!" She heard three shots and saw Senator Carmack falling and reeling into the gutter. Here she noticed a young man for the first time. He was nearer the curbing when witness first saw him. There were two posts near at the time of the tragedy. Robin Cooper was about three feet south of the post when she first saw him. Senator Carmack's arms flew out when he lurched. Senator Carmack fell north of young Cooper and south of the post. Colonel Cooper, when she first saw him, had his arm extended as though he was going to fire a pistol.

The firing.
The firing began as soon as witness moved; she believed it began while

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE PLANS

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 17.—(Special).—A surprise was sprung today when Frank Rives and John C. Duffy withdrew from the race for circuit judge in favor of J. T. Hanberry. This leaves Hanberry and Judge Thomas Cook, of Murray, the only contestants for the Democratic nomination.

Anti-Saloon League.

Louisville, Feb. 17. (Special).—The report of J. W. West, superintendent of the league, was the feature of the Anti-Saloon league meeting here. Mr. West urged the league to stick to the fight for the county unit and if beaten at that to follow Georgia and Tennessee in the fight for state wide prohibition.

In his report Superintendent West suggests that an effort be made to have the legislature create law enforcement commission to aid officials in those sections of the state, where it is difficult to enforce the law. The pay of such commission is to be made up from fines, etc., secured by them against offenders.

County Clerks in Bad.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 17. (Special).—A state official stated today that of the 119 county clerks in Kentucky, fully 100 of them are paying to the state money they had received and never accounted for. This is the result of the state auditor's vigorous policy, following the discovery of the shortages in the office in Jefferson county and the peculations of Judge Hoot in the state auditor's office. Another western Kentucky county clerk has been discovered short, and may be sued if he does not begin paying the money back promptly, but it is expected that no prosecution will result. It is said that few of the clerks owe less than $1,000, and when all the money is paid back the state will be reimbursed close to $200,000.

LOST EVERYTHING

MRS. J. L. KILGORE VICTIM OF FLORIDA FIRE.

Story of Seabreeze Hotel Blaze Told in Letters Sent Home by Paducah Guests.

Mrs. Edmund P. Noble and Mrs. Harry G. Tandy and little Miss Elizabeth Reed Tandy, of this city, who were stopping at the Clarendon hotel, Seabreeze, Florida, when it burned Sunday at 6 a. m., were fortunate in saving their trunks and their clothes; some valuables that were locked in the drawer in the dresser were lost. Many of the hotel guests saved absolutely nothing. Mrs. J. L. Kilgore, of Anderson, Ind., who had accompanied Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Tandy to Seabreeze, lost everything she had with her.

The hotel was filled with guests, more people being there than at Palm Beach this year, attracted by the auto races on the fine 22-mile beach track, and only the splendid work of the hotel people prevented a loss of life. There was absolutely no panic, every guest was quietly aroused and met the summons with wonderful coolness and presence of mind.

Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Tandy on hurrying out from their room were told the fire was still some distance from their apartments, and they coolly returned and packed up their possessions, securing a porter to take out their trunks. Mrs. Tandy sprained her ankle quite severely, but otherwise they stood the severe ordeal well. They are now at The New Colonnades hotel at Seabreeze, but will return home as soon as Mrs. Tandy is able to travel.

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indecent. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held in a sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the fading touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

By two points the High school quintet won from the Light and Power squad in a hard-fought game last night, while the D. A. D. team won from the Knights of Columbus by the comfortable margin of 23 to 3. Both games were good, and the playing at times was lively with every player striving hard for goal.

The first game was the most exciting, as first one team and then another would forge to the front. The High school had the score 13 to 12 at the end of the first half, but it looked like victory for the L. & P. boys in the second half, but High school played hard, and the final score was 19 to 17. The first half of the second game ended 10 to 3 in favor of the D. A. D. squad, while in the second half the lead was increased to 23 to 3.

Two more games will be played next Friday night.

The teams lined up: High school—Mitchell and Yarbrough, center; Hughes and Evans, forwards; Endress and Browning, guards.

L. & P.—Engert, center; Froge, Young and Ogilvie, forwards; Reynolds, Jones and Simpson, guards.

K. C.—Fisher, center; Hand and Trantham, forwards; Donigan and Donovan, guards.

D. A. D.—Shelton, center; Bagby and McGinnis, forwards; Elliott and Harsh, guards.
At the conclusion of the games Bagby was elected captain of the D. A. D. team; Young, of the L. & P., and Fisher, of the K. C.; Goodman, of the Elks; Hand, of the K. C., and Evans, of the High school, have already been elected.

AT THE KENTUCKY.

February 23—Louis Mann in "The Man Who Stood Still."

"Just a Woman's Way," which appears at the Kentucky on February 19, is everywhere acknowledged as a melodrama that is sane and logical in conception and production. While it furnishes a large share of the thrills that one expects from this class of play, these blood-stirring instances and startling climaxes are not so numerous as to interfere seriously with the logical working out of the plot.

"Little Miss Blue Bird," the new musical comedy, will appear at the Kentucky on February 22.

EAT WHAT YOU WANT WHEN YOU WANT IT

Give Your Stomach a Good Eat Without Fear of Indigestion.

As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep a case of Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and regulate a sour Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why they cure Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and prevent at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from indigestion with the common every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which will putrefy in the entire digestive tract and intensify, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

One candy-like Triangle, taken after eating, will promptly digest all your food, the same as a strong, healthy stomach would do it.

for the masses has proven its popularity for four years. At the Kentucky matinee and night, on Saturday, February 20.

"The Land of Nod."

The musical comedy spectacle, "The Land of Nod," comes to the Kentucky on Wednesday, February 24. Aside from the attractive elements which are customary to musical comedy presentations, and in which "The Land of Nod" is so unusually prodigal, the production is characterized by novelties which distinguish it among its kind. "The Man in the Moon," "The Welsh Rarible" man, "April Fool," "The Sandman," "The Jack of Hearts," "The Weather Man," are all personages of unique conception, and they are brought together in an attractive way with surroundings equally novel and interesting.

The house of cards in which dwells the "King and Queen of Hearts," with its mushroom towers and surrounding balloon trees, and the peppermint river flowing by, presents an unusual sight even in these days of originality and splendor in stage turn-out.

The following interesting review of Louis Mann's work in his new play, "The Man Who Stood Still," which he will disclose here on the 23d of this month should prove of interest: "John Krauss is an old Swiss watchmaker, who, in spite of a long residence in the United States, cannot get over his Old World ideas; cannot get into the advance current of life. Gradually his business slips away from him, and fewer and fewer customers come to his basement shop on the Bowery. His nearest and most active rival is Martin MacFerguson, from the north or Ireland, who sells American made watches and uses enterprising methods. Krauss has a daughter, Marie whom he has reared in strict obedience. She falls in love with MacFerguson's son, Frank, an ordinary type of East Side youth, and meets him clandestinely. Krauss has set his heart on Marie's marrying Fred Spiegel, the son of an old friend, who is equally anxious for the match. Marie has loved Frank too well, and on the day of her nineteenth birthday she tells him that it is necessary for him to marry her at once. Frank, making what seems to him to be the best of an unpleasant escape, takes the girl away with him, first robbing the till of in Krauss' little jewelry shop. Preparations for a birthday celebration, which is also to be the betrothal feast of Marie and Fred, are interrupted by a note from the girl announcing her elopement. Krauss disowns her, and sends his friends away that he may be alone with his sorrow. In the first act Krauss' jewelry peddler, Joseph Abrams, a young Russian immigrant, gives up his work to take a position at MacFerguson's. In the second act Joseph has made an advance for himself and has fallen in love with Alice Spiegel. The third act occurs several years later. Marie, deserted by Frank, has come to live in the Spiegel family, unknown to her father. Fred learns from her that she and Frank were never married, but he still desires to marry her. Joseph, now proprietor of a large store on Grand street, is still trying to gain Spiegel's consent to marry Alice, who shows a disinclination to obey her father. Spiegel is finally brought to confess that the only objection he has to the young man is his being a Jew. Joseph and Alice agree to marry with out Spiegel's consent, and the old man gives in to them with little grace. Krauss comes to play his nightly game of pinocchio, and learns of Marie's presence in the house. He learns, also, that she has not been married, and that her child is alive. Spiegel, too, learns for the first time Marie's true relations with Frank. He objects to her remaining in his house, and Krauss calls her to go home with him. At this point MacFerguson arrives, dragging Frank, a drunkard and tramp, to make reparation. He insists that his son marry the girl. Frank, however, announces that he is already married. The final act occurs in the jewelry shop, now dismantled with its stock sold to get money for Marie. Joseph, who has married Alice, offers Krauss the position of manager in his jewelry department, which the old man accepts. He has not yet forgiven Marie. Her child, however, works on the old man's sympathy until his pride is overcome and he gives in.

"With better acting the play would probably find the same vogue as 'The Music Master,' which it resembles only to the extent of having a simple-minded German-American as the principal character. It has a human appeal, in spite of the rather commonplace story, and its people, so far as the author has drawn them, are genuine. Interjections of melodrama and now and then straining for situations tend to detract from the play's vitality at times. The interest is not aroused until the second act is under way—in fact, the second act should be the first, by all rules of playmaking and logic. Two or three extraneous characters—a realistic showy gamine, and a couple of lovers—while they add to the 'atmosphere' of the neighborhood, are distracting. An attempt, before the curtain rises on the first act, to represent the sounds of the watchmaker's shop, is carried so far as to become ludicrous. The pinocchio game in the third act is an excellent piece of comedy writing, and the earlier scenes of this act would be hard to surpass in either dialogue or situation. The play just misses being good and one suspects that the writer's work has been tinkered with to the extent of causing the miss. It is fairly safe to predict popular success for the piece, however, for there is enough fineness to counterbalance the weaknesses.

Louis Mann as Krauss gives an interesting performance, better in the comedy parts than in the emotional incidents. In the latter he does not seem to get beneath the surface. He acts the pathos without feeling it. His work at the conclusion of the second act, when he learns of his daughter's elopement, is excellently managed, and he succeeds in finding sympathy in the final scene of the third act. Madame Mathilde Corbally as Katrina, Krauss' housekeeper, is excellent, as always, with her sure methods and great experience. Edith Browning in the role of Marie is melodramatic to a degree and falls to get anywhere near the meaning of the part. Emily Ann Wellman as Alice plays intelligently and with talent. Her performance is one of the best in the play. Lillian Bennett performs the role of Beale, a Bowery tough child, with perfect realism, so well done as to be disagreeable. Gladys Malvern is seen in a bit, and little Corinne Malvern, in spite of being absurdly dressed, is natural as the four-year-old Emma. Robert A. Fischer as Spiegel is the type of perfection and gives a clean-cut representation that comes close to surpassing the star. James Vincent is youthfully dignified as Fred Spiegel and acts agreeably. P. S. Barrett gives a vigorous performance of the role of MacFerguson. More reserve in his acting would make the part most convincing. H. A. Lamotte keeps on the surface of the character of Frank, indicating neither the attractive nor the bad qualities of the seducer. Geoffrey Stein as Joseph gives a good performance, managing the rather rapid transition from the peddler to the store proprietor with skill. His reading is generally good, though he lets a touch of the melodramatic creep into his long speech in the third act. The play is set with much attention to detail.

Answer This Question

When thousands of women say that they have been cured of their ailments by a certain remedy, does this not prove the merit of that remedy?

Thousands of women have written the story of their suffering, and have told how they were freed from it by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for thirty years these reports have been published all over America.

Without great merit this medicine could never have gained the largest sale of any remedy for woman's ills—never could have become known and prized in nearly every country in the world.

Can any woman let prejudice stand between her and that which will restore her health? If you believe those who have tried it you know this medicine does cure.

Read this letter from a grateful woman, then make up your mind to give Mrs. Pinkham's medicine a chance to cure you.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I am a firm believer in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was a great sufferer from organic female troubles for years, and almost despaired of ever being well again. I had bearing-down pains, backache, headache and pains in my abdomen, and tried Mrs. Pinkham's Compound as a last resort. The result was astonishing, and I have used it and advocated it ever since. It is a great boon to expectant mothers. I have often said that I should like to have its merits thrown on the sky with a search-light so that women would read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their sufferings. My husband joins me in its praise. He has used it for kidney trouble and been entirely cured."—Mrs. E. A. Bishop, 1915 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Homelessness on the Fleet. All the way across the Atlantic ocean is flashed the news that the sailors and officers of the American battleship fleet are suffering from that terrible malady, nostalgia. Few general news readers will gain much of an idea from the fact that the messages carry the mere name of the complaint. As a matter of fact, nostalgia is not anything like typhoid. It has a kind of deadly sound, but it is not nearly so terrible as the fever scourge. The man who never was homesick either never left home or never had a worthy home. All honor to a great naval force that becomes fretful and discontented in the closing days of a year-long cruise.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

With grateful acknowledgment for their confidence to the holders of its 9,960,106 Policies, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company presents the following summary of its condition and affairs for the year ended December 31, 1908, showing it to have been THE BEST YEAR IN THE COMPANY'S HISTORY

RESOURCES

United States, City and R. R. Bonds, and Stocks	$99,630,935.56
Bonds and Mortgages	90,795,319.02
Real Estate	22,444,627.78

Accrued Interest, Rents, etc.	2,820,502.29
	$236,927,361.19

A REASONABLE INDICATION OF THE DESERVED POPULARITY of its plans and of faith in its management may be fairly claimed in the number of Metropolitan policies in force. It is not only greater than that of any other company in America, but greater than that of all the other regular companies combined, less one. It exceeds, in fact, the COMBINED POPULATION of 24 of the States and Territories out of the 52 forming the American Union; and as to CITIES, it exceeds the combined population of Greater New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Cleveland, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, New Orleans and Buffalo.

ORDINARY DEPARTMENT

INSURANCE IN FORCE, $526,939,378

The Company issues policies for from $1,000 to $1,000,000 on individual lives, premiums payable quarterly, semi-annually or annually.

All policies are non-participating. They are plain business contracts which tell their whole story on their face; leave nothing to the imagination; borrow nothing from hope; require definite conditions and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

PREMIUMS ARE LOWER THAN ARE OFFERED BY ANY OTHER COMPANY

In the Intermediate Branch policies are adapted to the working classes. Each policy is for $500 and the rate lower than that offered by the Savings Bank system of Massachusetts. Two of the Metropolitan's Intermediate forms recently standardized by the New York and Massachusetts Departments provide for attractive combinations of insurance and annuities at the lowest rates offered anywhere.

ASSETS, $236,927,361.19

The Metropolitan paid its Policy-holders in 1908 for Death Claims, Endowments, Annuities, Paid-up Policies, Dividends, Bonuses, etc., with the amount set aside on their behalf as increased Reserve being over 8 per cent. less than five years ago and more than 15 per cent. less than ten years ago

The Company wrote more business in 1908 than any other Company in the world, and this for the fifteenth consecutive year

The number of policies paid in 1908 averaged one for each sixty-five seconds of each business day of 8 hours, and in amount $128.48 a minute, the year through. The value and timeliness of its policy payments may be gleaned from the fact that of the claims paid during the year, 3,479 were under policies less than three months old, 6,890 were under policies under 6 months, and 12,806 were within the first year of insurance.

VAN CLEAVE IS THE CHAIRMAN

Of the Tariff Commission in Indianapolis.

South for Protection, Says Congressman. Ransdell—Tariff Should Cease to Be Football.

FOR POLITICIANS—VAN CLEAVE

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 17.—Men of opposing political parties and whose views on the construction of the tariff differed as widely as the tenets of their parties, sat side by side as delegates and joined in the tumultuous applause as speaker after speaker in the first national tariff commission convention vigorously denounced the present tariff and the method of its construction. That the present tariff system has been outgrown and that the United States lingers decades behind the scientific methods of European countries was repeated almost as often as a new speaker addressed the delegates. That the prompt establishment of a non-partisan tariff committee was the only remedy for present conditions was repeated as often.

On the nature of the commission; whether it should be a permanent bureau and an adjunct to the department of commerce and labor; an appointive commission, one composed of experts only, or a body of business men empowered to engage experts, the speakers differed as apparently as did the delegates, but of the urgent need for it there seems no dispute.

J. W. VanCleave, of St. Louis, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who was made permanent chairman, aroused enthusiasm by asserting that the tariff must be taken out of partisan politics and Congressmen Fowler, of New Jersey, who is sponsor for the Beveridge commission bill now before congress caused a demonstration when he asserted that the tariff must cease to be the football of the political parties.

Former Governor Guild, of Massachusetts; Senator Brown, of Nebraska, and Congressman Ransdell, of Louisiana, gave varying viewpoints of their section. That there was little conflict save on minor points was indicated by their speeches. Guild spoke his thought plainly concerning the combination of the Chicago packers, the duty on hides, and the alleged victimizing of the American farmer.

Senator Brown did not except himself when speaking of the mystification of the average congressman on the subject of the tariff, and Henry R. Towne questioned vigorously the ability of the members of the ways and means committee to deal intelligently with the same subject. H. E. Miles, as a manufacturer, coincided with Towne.

Ransdell's Address. That the south is rapidly changing its ideas on the tariff question favoring protection instead of free trade was the declaration made by Representative Joseph E. Ransdell, of Louisiana. Discussing the southern farmer's interest in a tariff commission,

Mr. Ransdell urged the convention to secure a non-partisan business commission which will help to remove the tariff problem from party politics.

"Being a citizen of Louisiana," said Mr. Ransdell, "which has so many protected industries, sugar, rice, lumber, etc., I cannot help leaning somewhat to this side, and in my opinion the whole south is rapidly changing its ideas on this subject. Lincoln once said: 'I don't know much about political economy, but I do know that when we purchase a ton of steel rails from Great Britain for $100 we get the rails and Great Britain gets the money, and when we produce the rails from our own mines in our own mills we have both the money and the rails.' Now, surely, the latter condition is much better than the former, and it seems right and proper to assist in procuring and maintaining it by wise tariff enactments whenever possible."

Reform Needed. Mr. Ransdell declared that great abuses have crept into the tariff and that many changes in the tariff law are necessary. "It is most unfortunate," he declared, "that this great question which concerns so vitally the welfare of our nation should ever have been a partisan one and for policies and schedules should have been adopted in many cases for political effect rather than for economic reasons."

Mr. Ransdell discussed the tariff from a revenue point of view and declared that all political parties have favored a tariff in some form.

Medicine That Is Medicine. "I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints, but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that remedy is Electric Bitters; a medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for run down conditions," says W. C. Kleister, of Halliday, Ark. Electric Bitters purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, and impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you. 50c at all druggists.

"How much fuel do you compute we shall need on our motor trip?" "Well, suppose we say two gallons of gasoline and three gallons Scotch Outing."

OILING STREETS PLAN FOR SUMMER

Board of Public Works Considers Method.

Asphaltumene, Preparation Used Elsewhere, Will Be Applied to Thoroughfare.

BUSY SESSION LAST NIGHT.

Instead of using water to sprinkle the streets next summer, the board of public works at its regular meeting last night decided to use asphaltumene, a material which is recommended as having the qualities of staying dust for a year. The material has been used successfully in use in Louisville, Lexington, Russellville, Bowling Green and other cities, and the board decided to place an order for 30,000 gallons, which has been sold the city at a special price, including the use of a machine with which to sprinkle the streets.

Street Inspector Ernest Bell will be sent to Louisville for several days in order that he may become acquainted with the manner of treating the streets. The gravel streets will be taken, and all the dust will be swept off, and the low places will be filled after which the street will be rolled thoroughly. Then the sprinkling machine will be passed over it, and the asphaltumene will be spread on for a width of 24 feet. For three days the material makes the streets undesirable for traffic, but after it dries the street is dust proof, and is said to preserve the gravel. The work on the Paducah streets will not begin before May, and in the meanwhile the board will select the streets, Broadway and Jefferson street from Eleventh street to Fountain avenue will be treated as will Fifth street from Kentucky avenue to the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railroad station, and other streets will be selected, where the traffic is correspondingly heavy.

The material is a patent combination of crude petroleum with a base of asphalt, and is manufactured by the Southern Asphaltumene Road company. The material was recommended to the officials by citizens of Bowling Green, before the company advocated its use to the city officials. Mr. R. B. Tyler, an official of the company, was in consultation with Mayor Smith for several hours yesterday in regard to the material.

Improving Twelfth Street.

The recommendation of Mayor Smith and the board of public works was put in the form of a request to the ordinance committee for an ordinance for concrete pavement on Twelfth street from Kentucky avenue to Trimble street. The street is used several times each day by many employees of the Illinois Central shops, and the board thought the improvement would be a benefit. The granite curb will be used, and a narrow width will be selected for the residence section, which will also cut down the cost.

The board did not take up the advertising for bids for the erection of a brick stack and boiler foundation at the city light plant, as the plans have not been completed. However, a special meeting will be called February 24 for the advertisement of the bids, while March 2 bids for the furnishing of a boiler for the plant will be opened. Mr. J. O. Keenler, city light superintendent, was instructed to get bids from reputable firms.

Other Business.

A. Franke, sewer inspector, was instructed to get bids for the furnishing of sewer castings to the city. The two foundries in the city are not competing for the work, and it is said that some of the castings do not give satisfaction because the bids do not fit the holders.

The St. Bernard Coal company was notified that the coal wagons must not be driven across the concrete sidewalk on Jefferson street, but that the driveway must be used.

Market Master John Clark reported the south market doors not swinging properly, and he was instructed to have them repaired.

Bell was ordered to fill the low place and eliminate the danger.

B. K. Bonds asked for permission to install electric lights in his bench at the market house, and the board granted the permission. W. J. MacPherson, city electrical inspector, must approve the work.

A firm in Providence desires to furnish the city light plant with fuel, but the offer was not considered.

An account of $12 for placing concrete on South Sixth street near Norton street was allowed.

Street Inspector Bell offered his monthly report, which showed a saving of $29.99 in salaries over the corresponding month of last year and a reduction of expenses of $48.03 over February of 1908. An increase was made in the use of gravel.

President Richard Rudy, Secretary Louis Kolb and F. W. Katterjohn were present at last night's meeting.

Before giving the order to the firm for the asphaltumene the members of the board will ascertain that the material is suitable for gravel streets. It is being used in the Chicago parks with success, as well as the avenues in Louisville parks, which are gravelled with the same kind of gravel used in Paducah. President Rudy has written to several cities for letters concerning the success of the material. Answers will be received before the order is given the firm.

The unanswered prayer finds its fruitage in the disciplined heart.

Lions That Stopped a Railroad.

They all sat up on guard for some time; but the only noticeable thing they saw was what they took to be two very bright and steady glow-worms. After events proved that these could have been nothing else than the eyes of the man-eaters steadily watching them all the time and studying their every movement. The door from this platform was a sliding one on wheels, which ran very easily on a brass runner; and as it was probably not quite shut, it was an easy matter for the lion to thrust in a paw and shove it open. But owing to the tilt of the carriage and to his great extra weight on the one side, the door slid to and snapped into the lock the moment he got his body right in, thus leaving him shut up with the three sleeping men in the compartment.—January World's Work.

Daily Thought.

Nothing is so difficult but that it may be found out by seeking.—Terence.

Now, Kentucky will show Tennessee how to act.

If some restriction is not placed upon "occasional poets," we shall be forced in self-defense to oppose the celebration of any more birthdays.

The Kentucky State Journal suggests that dinner to Taft at $25 the plate would soon break the solid south.

Curiosity as to why Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Frohman desire divorce has been superseded by curiosity as to why they ever married.

Perhaps, no one is to blame because the quartermaster's department routes troops from Cheyenne, Wyo., to the Philippines via New York and from Fort Meyer, Va., via San Francisco; but it is fine for the transportation lines.

IN TENNESSEE.

Tennessee is being reformed whether or no. The bitter factional fight at the Democratic primary and the assassination of Carmack brought the controversy to an issue. Now the Carmack Democrats and the Republicans in the legislature are passing bills over the governor's veto, as fast as they can act. Following state-wide prohibition came the election reforms. The Carmack men foresaw that if they permitted the Patterson faction to gain the upper hand at this session they were doomed; so they formed a coalition with the Republicans for self-protection. So it was really the utter ruthlessness of the Patterson faction that forced prohibition on Tennessee.

The Republicans, under the leadership of Senator Fred Mansfield, of Athens, one of the brightest men in Tennessee, declined to join the anti-administration Democrats unless the election reforms were also carried out. These included wresting the ballot from the hands of the governor's henchmen, Tennessee elections, when necessary, are notoriously fraudulent. The governor appoints the state board of elections, and it is the county boards. The county boards appoint the officers. It is a simple system but mighty effective in close precincts.

Mansfield's bill provides for a state board, appointed by the legislature. It may accomplish more than stop the fraud that has kept the machine in control; it may galvanize the Republican party in Tennessee into something more than a combination of pie-counter grabbers. There has been in East Tennessee from time immemorial an element that cares nothing for the success of the Republican party at the polls, so long as its head could rest in the congressional hall at Washington and keep its members in federal patronage. For the sake of immunity through the election board, it is said, that element has consistently opposed every effort to make a dignified canvass of the state, and aided the Democratic administration in splitting the opposition.

A reform in the election methods may force that element into co-operation or drive it from politics, and Tennessee will have two active parties contending for supremacy, which is good for any state.

BURIED TALENTS.

It was a grave misfortune, which overtook that Mount Vernon, Ill., farmer, whose savings of $30,000, hidden under the floor of his house, were stolen. Yet, the community, perhaps, will be better off. Money hidden in the ground that way, becomes the chief object of its owner's concern. It becomes his God, and its hiding place his shrine. Now, money is a gross, vulgar thing. It is not fit to be made a God. It is fit only to be a servant, and it should be put to work, not only for its owner, but for the community. How many people think of that?

This Mount Vernon man's experience reminds one of the parable of the slothful servant, with whom his Lord left a single talent and he "dug in the earth and hid his Lord's money"; and when his Lord returned the servant said, "I know thou art a hard man. I was afraid and went and hid thy talent in the earth." And what that slothful servant had was taken away from him.

Small sums of money placed in the bank by different members of a community united constitute capital sufficient to back local enterprises, which return interest to the investors, employ labor and multiply the wealth of communities, which in turn supports churches, hospitals and charitable institutions. Money hidden away by misers does not perform its duty to humanity. It does the owner no good and only makes him coarse. There is an obligation resting on the possessor of money, which some people do not realize.

THANKS OF STATE EXPRESSED BY GOV.

To Those Who Took Part in Lincoln Day.

Excellent Proclamation Issued From the Executive Mansion at Frankfort.

TO THOSE WHOM IT IS DUE

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 17.—Governor Wilson issued the following proclamation in regard to the celebration of the centenary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln:

The great meeting at the farm on which Abraham Lincoln was born 100 years ago stirred the hearts of the people and gave us new joy in the love of our country. The day and the place drew the thoughts of all the world to Kentucky, where this child was born. "The better angels of our nature" touched the hearts and turned the thoughts of all the people to the blessing of God in this gift to humanity. The president of the United States and his wife and daughter came all the way to Kentucky to bear witness to the love of Abraham Lincoln and to his honor and glory. The president of the United States and his wife and daughter, came all the way to Kentucky to bear witness to the love of Abraham Lincoln, and to his honor and glory. The president himself laid the cornerstone of the memorial hall, which will forever hold, as in the ark of the covenant, the poor log hut in which he was born, to teach American youth for all time the lesson of his life.

We thank that Providence which has given to our people the blessing of this great love, made kind every heart, and won, even from hearts once unwilling, this just tribute. However, just the reproach, which every true Kentuckian may take to himself, that the thought of this memorial came first from strangers and not from ourselves, and no one can now dispute that Kentucky is proud of Abraham Lincoln and will do her part to keep the faith, and that all the people and their officers and representatives will work earnestly to this end.

We thank Mr. Richard Lloyd Jones for the inspiration which conceived the plan of buying the farm to keep the memory and the lesson of Lincoln's life before the world for all time.

We thank Robert J. Collier and the men of the Lincoln Farm association for taking up the thought and carrying it into effect.

We thank the president for his honorable and generous part in helping in the good work and hearing witness to its beauty and glory.

We thank our distinguished guests for the honor of their presence, help and good will.

We thank the Lincoln Centenary Committee of Kentucky and especially its chairman, Col. Andrew Cowan, and secretary, the Hon. Robert C. Kin lead, their associates and helpers, and the generous contributors to the state committee's fund for all their gifts and work.

We thank the judges, the state officials, the clergy and other honored guests, ladies and gentlemen, who answered to the call to come and share in the duties and joy of the meeting.

We thank the mayor and the city government of the city of Louisville, and the police, for their most honorable and helpful part in the work.

To Gen. Philip Preston Johnston, adjutant general of Kentucky, Brig. Gen. Rodger D. Williams and the officers and men detailed from the First regiment a cordial public acknowledgment is made for admirable and useful work and services under very trying conditions.

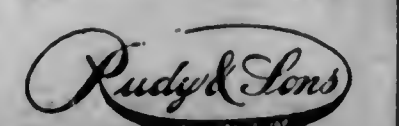

To the members of his staff the governor expresses his earnest appreciation of their loyal and cordial help in the ceremonies.

The adjutant general will, by special order, express the thanks of the governor to Gen. Williams and the officers and men of the First regiment, who were on duty, for their admirable and devoted service in this cause.

To the people of Hodgenville and Larrie county, the governor gives earnest praise for the splendid public and patriotic spirit, which would have done honor to a city of much greater numbers and wealth, and which will always be a credit to their people.

To Mr. Harriman, Col. A. H. Egan, Mr. F. W. Harlow and the officers and men of the Illinois Central railroad, the governor sends compliments and thanks for splendid work.

Nor can the governor close without expressing to the men of the press of Kentucky, of the Associated Press and the correspondents from other states, most cordial acknowledgments of the spirit in which they helped and took a useful and most earnestly appreciated part in the picture given to the world of this occasion in such a way that all could see the great heart, generous feeling and the true spirit of Kentucky and all her people shining bright and warm through all these proceedings.

Let all of us in Kentucky take each other warmly by the hand and be glad that this day has touched the tender chords of memory and warmed our hearts with feelings which make everybody better; that this blessed thought shall move up all to better things, to peace and good will, to friendliness and cordiality and to work together as "all things work together for good to them who love God." Let us all say and think that we shall try to deserve such a country and such a state, to strengthen our title to our birthright, and to bring it to pass that the memory of Abraham Lincoln shall ever live in the hearts of our people as in the days of old the coals were ever kept alive in the ashes of the altars in the temples. Let us here highly resolve on a new period of liberty and for us all to love our neighbors as ourselves; to join in good works and usefulness, and to let this memorial be an inspiration to generous, great-hearted public spirit, a spur to the youth and a joy to the old.

COOPER TRIAL

written in the Nashville Tennessean. Colonel Cooper said that he was getting old; that he was a private citizen, and that his name must not be used in the Tennessean; that if his name appeared in the Tennessean again either he or Senator Carmack must die; that he was getting old, and it made little difference to him. Colonel Cooper denounced Senator Carmack as an ingrate and a scoundrel.

Witness said he offered to do anything he could to relieve the situation, and suggested if Colonel Cooper did not object that witness would have a conference with Senator Carmack. Witness said Colonel Cooper had stated that a note had been written to Senator Carmack that could not be misunderstood. Witness went to see Senator Carmack.

The defense objected to witness answering why he went to see Senator Carmack, and objections were sustained.

Found Carmack Writing.
Witness said he went to the Tennessean office, and found Senator Carmack writing, but defense objected to what was said, and were again sustained. Witness was permitted to testify as to result of the conversation as given to Colonel Cooper. Witness saw Colonel Cooper again on the second floor of the Tulane and stated to him:

"Colonel, I can accomplish nothing."

Witness had some other conversation with Colonel Cooper, and when he said he could accomplish nothing Colonel Cooper said:

"Then, by God, this note goes."

Witness never assured Colonel Cooper in this or any other conversation that Colonel Cooper's name would not again appear in the Tennessean.

Witness then went back to the Tennessean office and told Senator Carmack that Colonel Cooper said he was going to send him a note. Witness told Senator Carmack that Colonel Cooper said the note would be one that would not be misunderstood. Witness saw Senator Carmack at 9:10 o'clock Sunday night at the Tennessean office for the last time. Witness communicated to Senator Carmack not only the language of Colonel Cooper, but also his demeanor and gave him to fully understand his manner and actions.

Witness never saw Senator Carmack alive after leaving him at 9 o'clock that Sunday night.

Zweilund Editorial.
The celebrated Zweilund editorial was read by Mr. Fitzhugh, who was conducting the examination, and was fully identified. Mr. Craft was not cross-examined, and stood aside.

Dr. Wittenberg Introduced.
During the remainder of the afternoon the jury was given further evidence by the state. Dr. John Wittenberg, an optician, who has an office in the Arcade, was introduced. He said that he was leaving his office to mail a letter when he saw coming through the Arcade from Fourth avenue Col. Duncan B. Cooper, John Sharp and Robin Cooper. He said that he did not see them enter, but that the three walked past him, with John Sharp in the middle. He said he knew all three slightly, but could not have been mistaken. This was on November 9, shortly before 4 o'clock. He was asked if this was not frequently a cut to the capitol, and if it was not a well-used highway, and replied that it was, and that the spectacle of people passing through the Arcade was not at all unusual.

Carey Folk was examined by the state. He is an attaché of the state treasurer's office. He testified to having seen Colonel Cooper and Robin Cooper walking west on Union street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, about the same time, and as he passed them he heard part of their conversation. This was when Seventh avenue was reached, and Robin, pointing toward Governor Patterson's mansion, said, "Father, are you going up this way?" to which Colonel Cooper replied that he was not. "We'll wait here a while," he said. Mr. Folk said he noticed them closely, that he was on the opposite side of the street, but that Union street is only about 16 feet wide, and there could be no possible chance of his being mistaken, as he heard both voices very clearly. Mr. Folk said he continued on to the Maxwell and heard later that Senator Carmack had been killed, after which he returned to the scene of the tragedy.

A Bright Witness.

A bright witness during the afternoon to follow Mr. Folk was John Tindell, a newsboy, aged 12. Tindell said that he sold the Nashville Banner and lived at home with his mother, and that on the afternoon of November 9 he was standing on the corner of Fourth and Church when Colonel Cooper and Robin Cooper passed. He was very close to them and heard Colonel Cooper say: "We will catch him there," or "We will get him there." Witness could not say which expression was used, but he was sure it was one or the other. He had followed up the street and saw them turn into the Arcade. He said he was not following them, but that he was walking north on Fourth and thought he heard some one call across the street, and as he looked over saw Colonel Cooper and Robin Cooper enter the Arcade.

Under cross-examination, Tindell said that he had been selling Robin Cooper the Banner for six months, and went by his office to deliver it, and before the Coopers had passed.

he had seen them together in Colonel Bradford's office. He had left the paper without remark, and it was 20 minutes later when they passed him at the corner. He never saw them again that afternoon and later heard of the death of Senator Carmack.

Hildy Edward Donald, assistant cashier of the First National bank, testified in substance the same as the testimony of Carey Folk, having passed the two on Union street, and seeing them go toward Seventh. He was not cross-examined.

Sharp Cursed Carmack.

The next witness was Hugh Morton, who testified that he was in the floral business at Murfreesboro, and that he had always been a great admirer of Senator Carmack. Three years ago, he thought, but was much confused as to the date, he and W. J. Smith were in the lobby of the Maxwell house. It was at the time that Senator Carmack had challenged Senator Robert L. Taylor to a joint debate, and the announcement that Taylor had declined to enter the contest had just been made public. The discussion, Morton said, between him and Smith was somewhat animated, and that Smith raised his voice and was making sweeping generalizations.

Election in a Belfry.

The ceremony of electing a deputy mayor in a belfry, a custom, dating back to medieval times, was observed in the tower of the parish church at Brightlingsea. Having climbed a steep spiral staircase of stone, the jurors, or electors, established themselves in the belfry and the chair was taken by the retiring deputy. Four new freemen were elected, from each of whom the ancient fee of 11d was exacted. The Rev. Arthur Pertwee, who is "recorder," was unanimously chosen as deputy mayor and took the antique oath of allegi-

DANIEL FROHMAN TALKS FURTHER

Has No Objections to His Wife Marrying Bowes.

Theatrical Manager Denies That He Tried to Force Wife to Remain on the Stage.

HE INTRODUCED THE TWO.

New York, Feb. 17.—"Mr. Bowes is a friend of mine, and if Mrs. Frohman decides to marry after the court grants her a divorce, I know of no one I would see her marry. He is a splendid fellow, young, and a thriving man of affairs."

This was the comment of Daniel Frohman, the theatrical manager, when asked today regarding his wife's intimation that she would become the wife of Edward H. Bowes so soon as the courts would permit.

"No man or woman was the cause of our decision to separate," insisted the theatrical manager. "No scandal of any sort is attached to this case in any way."

"Mr. Bowes was not mentioned in our original agreement, nor was the name of any third party. Our agreement was a friendly one, not hostile in any respect, and Mr. Bowes was not a party to it. His name was only mentioned between us as a dear friend."

"However, if Miss Illington decides to marry after the court gives her a divorce I know of no one I would rather see her husband than Mr. Bowes. He has often been a guest at my house. In fact, I introduced him to Mrs. Frohman. I believe, I do not remember now whether in Chicago or Boston."

Never Coerced Her.

Mr. Frohman was apparently somewhat surprised by the statements attributed to Mrs. Frohman, declaring that she did not want to continue on the stage and that "her love died when she learned that Mr. Frohman would insist upon a lifelong stage career."

"I am sure that Mrs. Frohman has not been reported with entire accuracy," he said. "It is true that when we married we both understood that Mrs. Frohman should continue in her stage career. I believed, and still believe that she has great talent and I hope to see her make full use of it."

"I thought she had a great future before her. But while my ideas have never changed in this respect, no disagreement ever arose between us."

Headache For Years

"I keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills on hand all the time, and would not think of taking a journey without them, no matter how short a distance I am going. I have a sister that has had terrible headaches for years, and I coaxed her to try them, and they helped her so much, she now keeps them by her all the time. From my own experience, I cannot praise them enough."

MRS. LOU M. CHURCHILL, 63 High St., Penacook, N. H.

Many persons have headache after any little excitement or exertion. They cannot attend church, lectures, entertainments, or ride on trains without suffering. Those who suffer in this way should try Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They give almost instant relief without leaving any disagreeable after-effects, as they do not derange the stomach or bowels; just a pleasurable sense of relief follows their use. Get a package from your druggist. Take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit you, it will return your money.

A STEADY DRAIN.

Sick Kidneys Weaken the Whole Body—Make You Ill, Languid and Depressed.

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of life-giving albumen from the blood into urine, and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that goes broadcast through the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor, depression. Uric poisoning causes rheumatic pain, nervousness, nausea, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment is a kidney treatment, and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Great Paducah cures prove it.

W. F. Shoemaker, of 820 South Sixth street, Paducah, Ky., says: "I cannot say too much for Doan's Kidney Pills. I had backache and was bothered with the irregular action of the kidney secretions. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at DuBois, Son & Co.'s drug store, took them as directed and received more genuine benefit from them than from all the other medicines I had ever taken."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

on that account. I never had and never should have attempted to coerce her.

"I shall always feel the warmest friendship for her. She is a fine wife and there has been no disagreement. We merely agreed that we should be happier apart."

Paid in His Own Coin.

"I've got nothing else, and you'll have to take it," said the consequential man in the tramcar.

"But we can't suppose to change half-sovereigns," said the conductor.

"Can't help that," said the passenger; "you'll have to find change, that's all. I'm not going to get off."

A man in the corner with a big black bag beckoned to the conductor; there was a whispered confab, and a smiling conductor returned to the wealthy passenger.

"A gentleman has offered to give you change," he said.

"His, ha! So you had to climb down and find change, after all, my fine fellow, eh? Well, here's the half-sovereign."

It was five minutes before he got his change.

When the conductor brought it, it was in a double handful. "There you are, sir," he said. And, dumping down the 119 pence and a penny ticket upon the cantankerous one, he left him to gasp out his expostulations.

The man with the black bag was an automatic gas-meter collector. —Tit-Bits.

BERLIN WOMEN ARE ATTACKED

Mysterious Ripper Has Slashed Fifteen Women.

City Is Terrorized—Outrage Upon Servant Girl Committed By Three Men.

NO WOMEN SERIOUSLY HURT.

Berlin, Feb. 16.—The mysterious attacks upon women on the streets of Berlin, recalling the notorious "ripper" cases of other cities, continue. Five women of the working class were wounded in this city and suburbs, while the wife of a merchant was wounded by an unknown assailant. None of the women was seriously hurt.

The first attack occurred in the Moabitte quarter on the open street, the assailant stabbing his victim in the upper part of the arm. Another woman was wounded in the thigh in the northern section of the city. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a girl was attacked in the western section of the city. She ward off the blow with her hand, which was wounded.

In the evening the ripper attacked a butcher's wife in the suburb of Hohenhausen, but the blade of his knife broke against the woman's stays. The assailant then beat his victim unconscious and she was found half an hour later and taken to a hospital. Later in the evening the wife of another butcher was wounded in the thigh in the eastern section.

The attack on the merchant's wife occurred in the southern part of the city. The woman was wounded in the thigh and hand. A second attack was made an hour after the first on a servant girl by three young men. One of them stabbed her in the abdomen.

This is the fifteenth attack since the outrages began.

Empty hogheads furnished free to parties wishing to ship their tobacco by rail or river

Tobacco is unloaded in large, flat baskets, each grade to itself, weighed and receipt given owner, showing number of draft and pounds thereof. A corresponding ticket is placed on each pile. The highest bid is written on ticket and, should owner accept same, by presenting at office receipt previously given, the cash is handed over.

Should the bid offered not be satisfactory, the tobacco can be offered the next day or at any other time thereafter.

It costs absolutely nothing to offer your tobacco unless bid is accepted, in which case we charge 10 cents per hundred pounds and 2 cents on the dollar.

You will get more money for your tobacco when offered to the highest bidder in open competition with twenty-five buyers trying to buy than when you expect or require one buyer to buy millions of pounds without competition at a round price.

ACTUAL STARVATION.

W. B. McPherson Gives Facts Regarding Dyspepsia.

Although indigestion and dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why people should not eat anything they desire—it will only cause it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

Dieting cannot cure Dyspepsia. If we refuse every article of food that disagrees with us, before long we have nothing left, and find ourselves chronic dyspeptics.

We can cure Dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee a cure, and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost in everyone who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the results which it produces. We exact no promises, and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely, nothing could be fairer. We are located right here in Paducah, and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want everyone in Paducah who is troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and get a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. They are very pleasant to take. They soothe the irritable stomach, strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, promote a healthy and natural bowel action, immediately relieve nausea and all stomach irritation, produce perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation, and promote nutrition.

A 25c. package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which we sell for 45c. and 85c. W. B. McPherson, Druggist, Paducah.

A prominent lawyer of Vicksburg, Miss., who, after two months of widowhood, took unto himself another spouse, was very indignant when he read one day in one of the local papers the following notice of his marriage: "The wedding was very quiet, owing to a recent bereavement in the bridegroom's family."—Catholic News.

Home Course In Modern Agriculture

XV.—Breeding Live Stock

By C. V. GREGORY.

Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1900, by American Press Association

THE science of breeding is very complicated, but there are some points that should be understood and followed by every farmer. No matter how well stock may be fed and cared for, if they do not have the inherited capacity to transform their feed economically into milk or beef or power they will always be "scrubs." On the other hand, poor feeding and care may make a scrub out of an animal which has the inherited ability to develop into something much better. To attain the best results breeding, feeding and intelligent care must go hand in hand.

Pure bred stock not only have the ability to make much more profitable use of the food given them, but they also add greatly to the appearance of the place. A pasture dotted with well bred, uniform calves, colts or sheep marks the owner as a progressive farmer. There is a great deal more pleasure, too, in caring for good stock than there is in vainly trying to get unprofitable animals into market condition.

The first thing to consider in starting in with pure bred stock is what breed to select. Do not make a hasty choice, for nothing will ruin your chances of success more certainly than frequent changes from one breed to another. Select your breed with care and then stick to it. All the leading breeds have good points, and the matter of selection is more a question of individual preference than anything else.

In beginning with pure bred stock the best plan for the average farmer to follow is to purchase a pure bred male of the desired breed and proceed to grade up his herd. There are two principles of breeding that should be kept in mind in this work. The first is the old law that "like produces like." In the main this law holds good, and, other things being equal, the offspring will resemble the parents. The second is the law of "atavism," or the tendency of the offspring to take after some remote ancestor. This is where the value of the pure bred sire comes in. His ancestors for generations have been animals of the same type as himself, and hence there is little chance of his progeny differing from this type to any serious extent. This long continued breeding along a certain line gives to the pure bred animal an ability to reproduce his type that the grade sire lacks. This ability is called prepotency.

Because of his great prepotency a pure bred bull when mated to grade cows has much more influence over the characters of his offspring than the mothers have. This is most strikingly shown when a polled bull is mated to horned cows. Nine out of every ten of the calves will usually be polled. It is the same with other characteristics—the ability to quickly turn corn into high priced beef or to use the feed for profitable milk and butter production.

Of course if the cows are pure bred also there is less chance of the calves resembling some inferior ancestor on their mother's side, and improvement will be more rapid and certain. The cost of an entire herd of pure bred is very great, however, and profits will come more surely by the grading up plan. After this has been carried on for a time, so that the farmer has some experience in breeding and caring for high class stock, a gradual start in pure bred females may be made by buying a cow and calf or a few yearling heifers. As the offspring of these increase the number of pure bred in the herd the grades can gradually be disposed of until an entire pure bred herd finally results.

In the selection of a sire to begin grading up a herd it is important that he be of the type which it is desired to reproduce in the offspring. The most important things to look for in a beef bull are constitution, form, quality and thick fleshing. Of these constitution is probably the most important, as a bull that is strong in this point will have the ability to sire a large number of rugged, healthy calves. Constitution is indicated by a deep, wide chest; large "barrel," giving plenty of room for the digestive organs; good sized nostrils and a large, clear eye. A point that must go with constitution if the best results are to be obtained is prepotency. Prepotency means the ability of a sire to reproduce his good points in his offspring. It is indicated by a heavy crest and a masculine looking head. A bull that has a fine, feminine appearing head will not be at all certain of producing good calves, even though he is a good individual himself.

Constitution and prepotency are of

BRONCHITIS VICTIM.

Little Daughter of Mrs. Hastings of Fitchburg, Suffered for Years— Could Not Attend School Winters.

COMPLETELY CURED BY VINOL.

"For many years my little daughter suffered from bronchitis. Every winter she was out of school more than she was in, until at last I had to take her out of school entirely. We had one of the best doctors in the city, and while he would bring her out of the acute attacks all right, they kept occurring. At last she got so very bad that it did not seem as though she could stand any more spells. Knowing that Vinol had cured my little nephew of congestion of the lungs I decided to try it for my daughter. I did so and could soon see a great difference. She took four bottles in all and it has completely cured her. That was a year ago and she has not had an attack of bronchitis since and seems strong and well."

Mrs. J. E. Hastings, Fitchburg, Mass.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains tonic iron together with all of the healing, medicinal and body-building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cod's livers,—but no oil to upset the stomach and retard its work. It does not taste of oil and children love it.

If Vinol fails to benefit any case for which it is recommended we will refund every cent paid us for it. That's your guarantee; we know it will do you good. W. B. McPherson, Druggist, Paducah.

NOTICE.

I urgently request all persons indebted to me to make settlement before the first day of May, 1909, as I will after that date bring suit on every unpaid note and account due me. Now your account is to each of you a small matter, while the whole is to me very important. I shall deal with all alike; if you don't pay you may know that you will be sued, whatever your name or color may be. I hate to do this, but I am forced to it in self-defense. If you have not the money and will borrow it to pay me in full by the first day of March, 1909, I will deduct 10 per cent from your account, thereby paying the interest myself. Is this not as fair as any sane man can ask?

A Freak of the Cards.
 It is well known to card players that the number of combinations that can be made with a deck of 52 cards is practically unlimited, and many stories of freak hands at poker have gone the rounds for years. It is probable, however, that five hands dealt at a "family" game in Germantown one evening last week will stand as long over the price. A hundred and fifty dollars may look like a big price to pay for a bull, but an increase of $2 a head in the value of the calf crop will pay for him in two or three years.

In many cases you may be able to join with two or three of your nearest neighbors in the purchase of a bull, thus not only saving money, but also obtaining a better animal than you would be able to secure otherwise. This applies of a still more force to the purchase of a stallion. In many communities it is impossible to secure the services of a first class horse of any breed. In such a case if fifteen or twenty farmers will agree upon a breed and subscribe $100 each a horse can be procured that will almost pay for himself in the increased value of his first crop of colts.

It is, often worth while to do an apparently fruitless act for the sake of acquiring a helpful habit.

When people are hungry for the living bread it's folly feeding them to lectures on agriculture.

In the game were three women and two men, and the pack had been in use for half an hour, when each of the players picked up a "pat" hand, which resulted in some lively betting of penny chips. When the showdown came it was found that the hands in order from the dealer were an eight full, a seven full, a six full, a five full and four full. As the dealer had

THREE KILLED AND MANY ARE INJURED

Wreck Near Murphysboro on Illinois Central

Train Turns Completely Over on Approach to Trestle in Southern Illinois.

GOING FIFTY MILES AN HOUR

Murphysboro, Ill., Feb. 17.—Three passengers were killed and 36 injured when Illinois Central train 105, south-bound from St. Louis to New Orleans, was wrecked by running into a broken rail six miles east of here.

The Dead.

Walter B. Long, Joliet, Ill.
Mrs. Cerena Walton, Anna, Ill.
Miss Mollie Walker, Mt. Carmel, Ill.

Injured.

Harry Compton, of Carbondale, Ill.
C. M. Brady and wife, of Murphysboro.
William Orth, of Murphysboro.
Thomas John, of Murphysboro.
Rev. H. M. McClellan, of Murphysboro.
L. Z. Cook, of Murphysboro.
Brakeman Moore, of St. Louis.
H. P. Lindsay, freight agent N. C. & St. L. Ry.

George Wicher, Cairo, Ill.
John B. Shea Jr., and family, St. Louis.
Mrs. Mary Dayton, of Marion, Ill.
Three-year-old son of Mrs. Dayton.
J. E. Bentley, of Carbondale.

The train was running 50 miles an hour on a trestle when the engine hit the broken rail. The engine passed over safely, but the baggage car and smoker went off the track and threw the four remaining cars down the embankment.

Survivors Talk.

Cairo, Ill., Feb. 17.—Among the survivors of the wreck were Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shea, Jr., and little daughter, of St. Louis, who were on the wrecked train en route to Cairo to visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shea, of Walnut street. The Shea family arrived in Cairo last evening on No. 1 at 6:35 o'clock and by orders of Dr. W. F. Grinstead, the Illinois Central railroad company's surgeon, were conveyed at once to St. Mary's infirmary. Mr. Shea had both shoulders injured, his head, leg and ankle cut. Mrs. Shea suffered greatly from shock and had frequent spells of vomiting which gave some cause to fear internal injuries. Their little daughter was badly bruised.

Mr. Shea, at the hospital, said: "We are hurt, but we are thankful that we escaped with our lives. We left St. Louis at 8:20 o'clock about 35 minutes late, having waited the arrival at the station of a theatrical company, which was due to play at Marion last night. There was a jolly crowd in the chair car in which we were seated which was next to the last car of the train. My wife and daughter, aged 7 years, were seated back of me and I had taken my wife's hat out of the rack. She was pinning it on when we heard the wheels grind along on the ties and the next thing we knew the cars turned over and went down into a ditch 25 feet below. The wreck occurred on a high curve and we were going at a high rate of speed. When we came to our senses we found ourselves sprawling on the ceiling of the car. My wife was near me and my daughter, who had been seated back of me, was nearby about eight feet in front of us. We called to her and when she answered our relief may be imagined. I broke a window with something, I do not know what, and got out and helped my wife and child out. I also took another woman and child out through this window.

"When we looked around I cannot tell you the scene that met our eyes. It was agonizing, that is all that I can say. Two coaches were turned completely upside down and another was lying on its side in the ditch, while the baggage car was turned completely across the tracks, but did not fall into the ditch. The relief train took us to Carbondale. As far as I learned there were seven killed, four killed outright and three who died afterward from their injuries. Everyone seemed to be injured and the scene was awful."

Col. Reed's Story.

Col. George W. Reed, of Omaha, Neb., state manager of the Woodmen of the World, who arrived in Cairo last evening on train No. 1, told in a graphic manner of the horrible scenes he had witnessed. Colonel Reed was so overcome by the rehearsal of the suffering that he witnessed that he wept as he told it. He said:

"I just missed the train wrecked at Pinckneyville and the thought of my escape makes me very grateful. When we arrived at Carbondale I saw four bodies taken from the train and I learned afterward that three others died from their injuries.

"On the station platform the sight was awful. There were men and women whose bloody bandages told the story of their injuries, while men carried injured women from the train, improvising chairs from their hands. The sight beggars description, and although I served for several years in the Civil war, I have never had anything affect me so deeply as the scenes of this horrible accident."

Fifty Miles an Hour.

Carbondale, Feb. 17.—Three people killed, several probably fatally injured and a score of others more or less seriously injured, resulted from the wrecking of Illinois Central passenger train No. 205 due here from St. Louis at 11:25 a. m.

The wreck occurred near the north-west city limits of Carbondale, about a mile west of St. Louis junction. The train was 20 minutes late out of Murphysboro, and at the time of the accident was running at a high rate of speed, some say between 50 and 60 miles an hour.

Fifty yards or so west of the trestle, west of the Oakland cemetery, the engine left the rails and every car following was either partly or completely overturned. Of the three passenger coaches two were turned bottom side up, the other coach turning over on its side. The coaches were all well filled.

Miss Grace Perry, one of those injured, is a daughter of Mrs. Frank Perry and a sister of Mrs. Dr. H. E. Lightfoot, of this city. She but recently returned, with her twin sister, Miss Rose Perry, from Kansas, where they had been employed during the millinery season.

Mrs. Cerena Walton, one of the dead, is the mother of J. K. Walton, of Anna, and is well known to many Carbondale people, the younger Mrs. Walton being a daughter of Mrs. E. H. Storm, of this city.

The other of those killed is Walter B. Long, of Joliet, a traveling salesman.

One of the most seriously injured is Mr. J. T. Bentley, proprietor of the American House, Carbondale. He was pinned under some of the wreckage and could not be removed for quite a while. Ed E. Patterson, of Carbondale, is another of the seriously injured. Mrs. John Douglas, of this city, is also reported seriously injured. She was returning from a visit to St. Louis.

Several of the train crew, mail clerks, etc., were badly injured. Conductor Pinham was one of these. Flagman George Moore was also injured. Neither Engineer Mulconery or Fireman Lavender were injured, neither leaving the engine.

The four mail clerks were all more or less injured, the most seriously being C. M. Brown, of Covington, Tenn. The others were: O. B. Maxwell, Troy, Tenn.; Fred J. Brantigan, Belleville, Ill.; and Joseph M. Green, Covington, Tenn.

Denny Sullivan, express messenger, was considerably bruised. The "news hutch" on the train, whose name we have failed to learn, was also among the seriously injured.

It is reported that the first word

FRIDAY EVENING

WEST KENTUCKY ORATORICAL CONTEST AT MADISONVILLE.

Schools That Will Be Represented, the Speakers and Their Subjects—Event of Interest.

Madisonville, Feb. 17.—The people of Madisonville, especially those who feel an interest in the educational affairs of the town, are all more or less interested in the Oratorical contest which is to take place next Friday evening at the tabernacle.

Representatives from the High schools at Owensboro, Paducah, Hopkinsville, Princeton, Henderson and Pembroke are to be here on that occasion and they are to contest with our representative for the honors of the evening.

The three judges who have been selected to determine the winner are Mr. J. B. Atkinson, Burlington; Prof. J. Y. Boyd, Dixon, and Judge Flournoy, of Morganfield. So far as heard from, the men selected have agreed to act. It would be a difficult matter to select three men who would perhaps be more acceptable to all the contestants than the ones named.

The contestants and their subjects are as follows:

Hopkinsville High school, Harry

Cate, "Janetown, Yorktown and Annapolis."

Madisonville High school, Fay Townes, "Does Mankind Live Right?"

Paducah High school, Edwin Lightfoot, "The Evil of the Hour."

Princeton High school, Roy P. Stevens, "The Southern Herd."

Owensboro High school, J. Houston Payne, "Old Kentucky."

Henderson High school, not reported.

Pembroke High school, Ernest Vass "State Wide Prohibition in Kentucky."

Large delegations are expected from all the cities that furnish contestants. These delegations will be met at the depot by proper committees and will be taken to the Y. M. C. A. building where a reception will be held from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m.

The local branch of the league will bear all the expenses. As these members have assumed this obligation, it is hoped the citizens will be liberal in their patronage at the tabernacle.

A most delightful program has been arranged in addition to the oratorical contest. The evening promises to be one of both benefit and pleasure to all who may attend the exercises.—Madisonville Journal.
